Drugs and Sickness.
It is not too much to say that the medical profession today no longer believes that any drug (with a few exceptions, like quinine in malaria, mercury and the antitoxins) will cure a disease as such. All that it will do is to modify conditions as to help the body in its fight against disease.

We are no longer content, in the fitting phrase of Voltaire, to "pour drugs of which we know little into bodies of which we know less." What will help one patient will harm another, and what may be beneficial in the early stage of a disease will be useless or even injurious in a later stage.

In the language of Captain Cuttle, the effect of a drug, like "the heart" of an observation, "depends on the application on it." It is neither rational nor safe blindly to swallow down a drug which is highly recommended in a certain disease and expect it to "do the rest." There is no such thing as a universal cure for a disease nor even a remedy which can be relied upon as "a good thing to take" at any and all stages of it.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Delineator.

Gagadig Gigadab.
There was a quaint old man in Manchester, England, who for many years went by the unique name of Gagadig Gigadab. His original name was John Smith, and for many years he brooded over the possibilities of mistaken identity involved in it. The name figured frequently in criminal records, and he became abnormally apprehensive lest he might be confused with some of the bad John Smiths. At last what he feared so much actually happened. One morning the papers reported the arrest of an accountant in a bank for embezzlement, and through some blunder of the reporter the identity of the embezzler was confused with the subject of this article, who was also a bank accountant. Then and there he determined to assume a name like unto no other ever borne by mortal man. And in Gagadig Gigadab most people will agree that he succeeded in so doing.—New York Tribune.

Legally Better Off.
The creditors of the ancient king had become so unpleasantly insistent that he resolved to put them where they could trouble him no more. So he invited them to a great banquet, and when they had feasted and drunk of his prepared wine he instructed his servants to convey them to his deepest dungeons. And the next morning when he went down to learn whether his servants had done their bidding his creditors raised their voices and entreated to be set free. But he remonstrated with them, saying: "My friends, you have no just cause for complaint. Are you not better off in the eye of the law than ever before? Any lawyer will tell you that a secured creditor has an exceptional claim." Then he left them and went on his glad way, happy in the knowledge that he could at last go through his dominions without being dunned.—Chicago News.

Masculine Music.
The musical doctor stepped into the shop. His hair stuck out like stiff straws, and his joy of life was under his arm; also two buttons on his waistcoat were undone. So there was no doubt about his being a genius.

"Aha, aha, aha!" purred the musical doctor. "E string for a violin, please."

The man behind the counter looked flustered. He went to the shelf, took off a small packet, examined it carefully, examined it again and then hesitatingly returned to the customer.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he began diffidently, "but this 'appears to be my first day in the shop, and yet might give me a little 'elp. The fact is these 'ere strings look all alike to me, an' I can't tell the 'es from the shes!"—London Globe.

Firearms in Russia.
As an illustration of how closely everything is watched in Russia, take its system of registering firearms. When a weapon of any kind is purchased a permit must be secured from the local authorities. The name of the man who makes the purchase, with the number of the weapon, is recorded. If the purchaser ever wants to dispose of the weapon he must notify the authorities and cause the transfer to be recorded on the books of the firm which sold it.

An Anachronism.
When some celebrated pictures of Adam and Eve were seen on exhibition Mr. McNab was taken to see them. "I think no great things of the painter," said the gardener. "Why, man, tempting Adam w' a pipkin of a variety that wasna known until about twenty years ago!"

Hindering the Process.
Doctor—Well, John, how are you today?
John—Very bad; very bad. I wish Providence 'ud 'ave mussy on me an' take me.
Wife—Ow can you expect it to if you won't take the doctor's physic?—London Mail.

Her Answer.
In inculcating the idea of truthfulness a teacher asked the question, "What is the best thing in the world to do and sometimes the hardest?" A little girl raised her hand timidly. "Well, my child?" "To get married!"

Too Fond of Them.
"Is he fond of outdoor sports?"
"Yes. His wife complains that he even invites them home to dinner."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Famous Rayo

Is the Lamp of Real Beauty

because it gives the best light of all lamps. The Rayo gives a white, soft, mellow, diffused light—easy on the eye because it cannot flicker. You can use your eyes as long as you wish under the Rayo light without strain.

The Rayo Lamp is low-priced, and even though you pay $5, $10 or $20 for other lamps, you may get more expensive decorations but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. A strong, durable shade-holder holds the shade on firm and true. This season's new burner adds strength and appearance.

Existing in some part of Alexandria that is undesirable, in a house that is out of repair, with few modern conveniences, bad heating arrangements, cramped in between close walls, with front steps right on the sidewalk, and no porches or lawns, and with a dark, damp cellar, etc., etc. Isn't this what a number of people are doing? Paying a good rent for it and losing just that much money every month. If this hits you, why don't you come out to Rosemont and is a place of enduring beauty, of domestic health, comfort and economy—warm in winter, cool in summer, snug and dry at all seasons. "Ivory" is not expensive.

Ordinary plaster materials—lime, etc.—are extravagant. They make a porous, absorbent, damp, drafty, unsightly, unsanitary, weak and crumbling wall.

Ivory Wall Plaster

made from Rock Gypsum, makes a hard, tough, smooth, dense, dry, sanitary wall that denies time, weather, fire and water.

Saves weeks of time in building, saves doctor bills, saves fuel, protects the decorations, saves repairs. Ask your Architect. In plastering your home, insist upon Ivory Wall Plaster. Sold only by
